

Curriculum Vitae

- Name : Mohamed Abdel-AzimTeleb
- Date of Birth : 1/2/1949
- Nationality : Egyptian
- Religion : Muslim
- Position :
 - Vice Dean for Post- Graduate Studies and Research .
 - Professor of Economics in the Department, of Economics, Faculty of Commerce, AssiutUniversity.
 - Director of the Strategic Planning Unit inAssiutUniversity.
- Address : Faculty of Commerce, AssiutUniversity, Assiut, Egypt.
- E-mail : Teleb11@Yahoo.com
- Telephone : Home Tel. (088)2316561
Work Tel. (088)2423246
Mobile : 0103343060
- Qualification :
 - Ph.D. in Economics, SalfordUniversityManchester, U.K., 1985.
 - M.Sc. In Public Sector Economics Salford University, U.K., 1982.
 - Post-graduate Diploma in Economic Development, Lancaster University, U.K., 1979.
 - B.Sc. In Economics, AssiutUniversity, 1972.
- Main Publications :
 - The relationship between public social expenditures & economic growth in Yemen, The Scientific Journal, Faculty of Commerce, Assuit University-June 2012.
 - Merging banks in Yemen, The Scientific Journal, Faculty of Commerce, and Assiut University-June 2011.

- Strategic planning for strategic for higher education institutions, CQAP, March 2009.
- Inflation as a target for monetary policy, Journal for Futuristic Studies, Centre for Futuristic Studies, Assiut University, July 2004.
- Economic reform in Egypt, The Review of the Faculty of Commerce, AssiutUniversity, June 2004.
- The monetary explanation of exchange rate fluctuations, Journal of Futuristic Studies, Centre for Future Studies, AssiutUniversity, January 2003.
- Fixed investment behaviour: An Econometric Study. Contemporary Commerce Research Review, Bulletin of the Faculty of Commerce, SouthValleyUniversity, Sohag. December 2002.
- Consumption function based on the permanent income hypothesis and its relevance to Egypt, The Review of the Faculty of Commerce, AssiutUniversity, 1999.
- The applicability of the monetary approach to devaluation to the Less Developed Countries, Contemporary Commercial Research Review, Faculty of Commerce, Sohag, 1999.
- Teleb and Mabrouk, Econometric Studies on the demand for money in Saudi Arabia: a review, The Journal of Imam University, Saudi Arabia, 1996.
- The demand for money in Saudi Arabia, Contemporary Commerce Research Review, Bulletin of the Faculty of Commerce, South Valley University Press, June 1996.
- The Effectiveness of Monetary Policy in Saudi Arabia, The Review of the Faculty of Commerce, Assiut University, No. 20, 1994.
- Devaluation: Theory and Application for Advanced Countries, The Review of the Faculty of Commerce, AssiutUniversity, No. 19, 1993.
- The applicability of the Elasticity Approach to Devaluation to the Less Developed Countries: An empirical study, The Egyptian Journal for Commercial Studies, Faculty of Commerce, Mansoura University. Vol. 17, 1993.

- World Inflation: The phenomenon and its economic explanation, Contemporary Egypt, October 1990.

Teaching experience in Egypt:

As a staff member in the English Teaching Program, I have been teaching the following courses for many years:

- Microeconomics – Macroeconomics – Money and Banking – International Trade – Public Finance – Project Appraisal – The Economics of Natural Resources, and Economic Development.
- Also, I teach in Arabic many economic courses in Faculties of Commerce and Law at under and post graduate levels. These courses include Economic Theory, Mathematical Economics and Econometrics..

Working
Abroad

- : - In Saint Johns' University, New York as a visiting professor (1999-2000).
- In Saudi Arabia for six years teaching Economics (1990-1996)

Managing editor of the following periodical journals:

- 1 The journal of futuristic-studies, Published by centre for future studies, Assiut University, Egypt.
- 2 Studies in Higher Education, published by Education Enhancement Center, Assuit University.
- 3 The scientific journal, published by the Faculty of Commerce, Assuit University.

Name : Mohamed ATeleb
Position : - Vice Dean and Professor of Economics – Assiut University.
- Director of the Strategic Planning Unit in Assiut University.
E-mail : Teleb11@Yahoo.com
Telephone : Mobile : 0103343060

Related Experience:

As a TOT, I have a good experience in training staff members of Egyptian Universities in various aspects related to quality assurance and strategic planning.

I have been participating in accreditation activities held by the National Authority of Quality Assurance and Accreditation in Education.