

Unusual Swelling at the Perineal Region with Atresia ani in a Newly Born Calf.

N.A. Misk, M.A. Ali and H.A. Youssef.

Abstract:

In this case study of a 1-day-old male calf, an unusual swelling in the perineal region is caused by a hard, movable, triangular mass. Surgery reveals a pelvic-like bone structure. Included are radiographs and photographs

Published In:

Agri. Practice , Vol. 6, No. 9 ,